DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 4-10 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Behnke et al. (US 2002/0088799).

Regarding Claim 1, Behnke et al. disclose (Figure 3) a method for adjusting a fusing device of a digital printing machine (paragraph 8, lines 1-5), characterized in that microwave signals of a specific frequency or frequency range are directed at a printing material (1), that a change between the microwave signals reflected by the printing material (1) and the emitted microwave signals is detected, and that the fusing device is adjusted based on the change of said microwave signals (see paragraphs 11 and 12) .

Regarding Claim 2, Behnke et al. disclose that a level change and/or phase change of the emitted microwave signals compared with the reflected microwave signals is detected (reflected and absorbed microwave levels are detected and compared; see paragraph 11 and 12, "measurable parameter") .

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Behnke et al. (US 2002/0088799) in view of Ohmichi (US 6,246,860).

a. Behnke et al. disclose the elements as outlined in section 3 above. Additionally, Behnke et al. disclose the water content of a printed material as a measurable parameter of importance (paragraph 12).

Art Unit: 2852

- b. Behnke et al. differ from the instant claimed invention in not explicitly disclosing the reflected microwave energy is used to determine the humidity of the printing material.
- c. Ohmichi discloses a method to detect the moisture content of a printing sheet involving measuring the transmission of microwaves through the sheet (col. 8, lines 39-66).
- d. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to measure the humidity of a printing sheet, as disclosed by Ohmichi, by utilizing the reflected and absorbed microwave energy concepts as taught by Behnke et al., for the benefit of obtaining data relevant in paper fixing devices (Ohmichi; col. 8, lines 39-66)
